

YETUNDEY

“You want a complete artist? Here you have one.”
(Dani Fromm, laut.de)

Billo Bo$$ Bit$h, multilingual multi-talent, Black Nina Hagen and above all – self-made artist. YETUNDEY is a rapper, singer, producer, songwriter, model, dancer, video director, fashion designer and, above all, one of the most exciting and creative minds in the German music landscape. The musical cosmos of “Yeti” ranges from blasting electro-rap to introspective, orchestral ballads and pop hooks – YETUNDEY cannot and does not want to limit herself artistically, which is great luck for her fans. Every release remains a surprise bag.

With her Nigerian and French roots, YETUNDEY grew up in Leipzig, Germany and came into contact with hip-hop culture at an early age, especially through dancing. Over the years, she became interested in disciplines such as rap, singing, music and video production. This broad set of skills now enables the Berliner-elect to exploit her diversity and creativity down to the last detail. Whether ironic self-dramatization, vulnerable confrontation with toxic relationships with oneself and others, or as impressively complex storyteller - on four EPs, YETUNDEY shows that life is complex and that she is far too creative to limit herself to one pigeonhole. Why should she, when she can be an entire walk-in wardrobe - and in this way can freely choose from a genre potpourri between rap, pop, electro, afrobeats, R&B, chanson, and house. Which ace will this all-rounder pull out of her magic hat next? Only YETUNDEY herself knows that.
